

Here's A Baby Dinosaur

This is a great little dinosaur song to do with a small class or your own children. The melody is simple since it just goes up and down the musical scale.

Begin this song curled up in a ball and just follow the lyrics to standing, stomping, and sitting back down. Repeat, asking children what dinosaurs they are.

Two other dinosaur songs on my website are "Dinosaurs in Cars" and "Dinosaur Dance Floor". You can find them easily in the alphabetical list of Songs of the Month.

Here's a Baby Dinosaur

Based on Here's Baby Birdie, traditional

Here's a baby dinosaur, he's hatching from his shell
Out pops his head, then comes his tail
Next his legs he stretches, he give a great big roar
Then he stomps, and stomps, and stomps
And sits back on the floor
Down, down, down, down, down, down, down, BOOM!
