

Frog Pond

by Nancy Stewart Copyright 2020

This song was inspired by my grandchildren who regularly go down to the frog pond near their house. It got me thinking...and then singing!

You can sing this song as is, or better yet, use it as a template for your own song about places you and your children like to go. Ask what their favorite places to go are, and have them think of something they hear or do there. It's pretty open-ended, and you can easily adapt it with your children's ideas. You can take it a step further and take photos of your children at each of the places you sing about, and then sing the song as you go through the pictures. Children love to see pictures of themselves, and having their own song to go with them makes it extra special!

Frog Pond

Let's go down to the frog pond, let's go down to the frog pond
Let's go down to the frog pond and listen to the froggies sing
(ribbit, ribbit, ribbit, ribbit)

Let's go out in the forest, let's go out in the forest
Let's go out in the forest, and listen to the birdies sing
(tweet, tweet, tweet, tweet)

Let's go down to the seashore, let's go down to the seashore
Let's go down to the seashore, and listen to the fishies sing
(glug, glug, glug, glug)

Let's go down in the canyon, let's go down in the canyon
Let's go down into the canyon, and listen to the coyotes sing
(owooo)

Let's go down to the dog park, let's go down to the dog park
Let's go down to the dog park, and listen to the doggies sing
(ruff, ruff, ruff, ruff)

Let's go out into the backyard, let's go out into the backyard
Let's go out into the backyard, and listen to the honeybees sing,
(buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz)
